CLIENT ELIGIBILITY: MSU Extension - Oakland County programs and materials are available to all without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, age, religion or national origin.

Expanded Food and Nutrition Program - Offers nutrition education on a one-to-one or small-group basis. Paraprofessional nutrition instructors work with low-income Oakland County families, teaching nutrition, food buying, preparation, preservation, food safety and sanitation, and meal management. Presently there are nine nutrition instructors and two breast-feeding counselors located in all geographical areas of Oakland County. Priority is given to families with young children. Call 248-858-0897 to refer a family.

4-H Programs - 4-H Youth Programs (248-858-0889) offer "learn by doing" educational programs in many different areas. Programs are designed to help young people ages 5-19 become effective citizens and to help them achieve their full potential. 4-H provides unique learning opportunities for youth to develop their leadership skills, express their creativity, and acquire practical skills to help them cope with the many issues they face, as well as prepare for a high tech future. The 4-H program staff provides educational materials, recruiting and training of adults and teen leaders, program organization techniques, and program opportunity activities. Programs are conducted in partnership with schools, church groups, community organizations, and other interested individuals. Volunteer leadership is the key in extending 4-H Youth Programs, and is the basis for program efforts. Popular programs in Oakland County include: youth nutrition, SPACES program exploring personal growth (Inner Space), science and technology, cultural enrichment programs, character education, international understanding, small animals, crafts, and horses. Special programs in career exploration and workforce preparation are offered at selected sites.

Agriculture and Natural Resources - Horticulture - (248-858-0887) Provides informational services and educational programs to residents and businesses in areas of small gardens, trees, shrubs, lawns, greenhouse, construction, and identification.

Food Safety and Nutrition Education - (248-858-0902) MSU Extension - Oakland County staff is available for food safety and nutrition education programs for local customers. Topics include food safety, food preparation, and nutrition information for all ages, diets, health, and wellness. Consumers can call this number to get the latest up-to-date information on food safety issues.

Parenting - (858-0897) Provides education and support to families focusing on child development, parent-child interactions, positive discipline strategies, breastfeeding, and immunizations.

Community/Neighborhood Development - (248-858-0895) Building Partnerships with existing communities and neighborhood-based organizations, agencies, and other groups to insure local ownership and support for projects, programs, and activities. Implements innovative university outreach projects. Provides educational and technical assistance programs for local officials and community leaders.

Yard and Garden Diagnostic Clinic - (248-858-0902) Helps homeowners and businesses to manage Plant and insect problems environmentally, economically, and safely.

Water Quality - (248-858-0895) The Michigan Groundwater Stewardship Program is a statewide effort to minimize threats to groundwater. The quality of our groundwater affects our lakes and streams, as well as the water we drink. We provide education and technical assistance on water quality issues to the agriculture community through the Farm*A*Syst program and to homeowners through the Home*A*Syst program. The Groundwater Resources Stewardship Program is an ongoing comprehensive educational program targeting people responsible for or interested in the management of our surface water resources.
